

Another installment of "Am I a lesbian?" whenever I talk with other girls about boys and stuff, I really cannot relate to anything past "wow hands are hot." whenever I've thought about having sex with guys, it's not really because I want to? It was always out of curiosity or necessity. But I think I have been in love, that I'm sure of.
I've also been feeling so ugly lately, like I can't look in mirrors right now. I think that lately I've been tying my self worth to how fuckable I am, and no one wants to fuck me right now, so I'm feeling a bit down, haha. maybe I should write a play about that.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Dear Vagina,

I think I only like looking at men.

But I never want to touch ^{them}. I like flirting w/ guys, I like when they like me, but I never want to fuck one. I was more interested in drunk Acacia trying to make out with me than most boys I've had an actual chance with in years. One day I think I'll need a chance to just cuddle and kiss a woman. maybe I really am a lesbian, I don't know. There have been so many moments in my life where I've been overwhelmed with my love for women. So much so, you'd think I wouldn't still be confused. But I am.

I think the thing that I like most about boys are their hands. A tiny part of me was worried about cutting my hair because I thought boys would stop hitting on me. But then I realized that's what I want. Don't want more people to think I'm gay? Yes, so why am I worried?
I should cut my hair, and maybe cut out men. Maybe that's why I've been single for so long. Maybe in 10 years, everyone will look back and think "oh... that's why she was always single." I like boys' faces, but I don't really want to touch them ever. Maybe that means I'm a lesbian. I don't know, but I'm real confused. Dear vagina, what do you think? What do I do? ???

Sincerely,
An indecisive Dyke ♡