

Aesop's fable, but i forg at the name of the fable. It's about a father and a son who for some reason (i forgot mas) has to carry their donkey across a river. Everyone in the town laughs at them. Finally the son ~~can~~ could no longer handle their taunting and lets go of the donkey. The donkey falls into the river and drowns. ~~The father~~ in the end, the father says HLL his son, "PLEASE ALL AND YOU WILL PLEASE NONE." i cant please this omg my ~~and~~ euraentric heteronormative world. i will try my best to live like his paintings and be uncorporately and authentically MRS ECT.

Anyways, yesterday i went to my first YWAC meeting and it was cool! They provide metro cards and food so that's good-buh. Everyone there is so nice! It's once a week and the pay is good. Looking forward to it!

Love, tab

P.S- i'm going to go shopping soon. cant wait!

P.S-S- going to girl's generation tomorrow to support warda

P.S-S-S- ~~am~~ ~~am~~ messed up with college tuition. dont want to talk about it tho.
